

Bay Thermal Imaging uses up to date technology to provide consumers with efficient and cost effective thermography solutions.

The company was established in 2004 to provide support to Electrical Contractors and Industry, and has maintained excellent working relationships throughout this time with all its' clients, during a period of continual growth. With over 30 years of practical experience in the electrical industry, contractors can be confident that we only provide a thermography service and will not encroach on their work or clients in any way, whilst having the necessary knowledge and background to advise them.

Qualifications held:

ITC trained thermographer, certified to ISO18436-7:Thermography

NZ Electrical Registration and CPL